THE LATEST FROM DR. YOO REGARDING
DERMATOLOGY AND SKIN CARE

ROSACEA AWARENESS MONTH

April is Rosacea Awareness Month, highlighting a common but often misunderstood condition that affects millions worldwide. Rosacea can present with persistent redness, visible blood vessels, flushing, and sensitivity, and often requires a personalized approach to management.

In addition to skincare and prescription therapies, laser treatments such as VBeam Pulsed Dye Laser (PDL) can be highly effective in targeting redness and visible vessels. Sun protection also plays a key role, as UV exposure is a common trigger. With the right approach, rosacea can be meaningfully improved and well controlled.

AAD ANNUAL MEETING 2026

I had a great time at the American Academy of Dermatology Annual Meeting in Denver, where I presented a product theater with Classys on their next-generation monopolar RF device, Everesse. It was exciting to share clinical insights on emerging K-beauty technologies and their growing role in dermatology.

The exhibit hall also highlighted the strong presence of K-beauty brands across the industry, and it was a pleasure to meet Christine Chang, Co-CEO of Glow Recipe, in person. It was inspiring to see Korean innovation continue to make such an impact on the global stage.

WDS FORUM & IVWG

I had the opportunity to attend the Women's Dermatologic Society (WDS) Forum & Industry Visioning Work Group (IVWG) in Texas, a unique meeting that brings together leaders across dermatology for more intimate, retreat-style discussions. It was especially meaningful to engage in conversations around leadership, innovation, and the future of our field beyond traditional networking. I left feeling grateful to reconnect with colleagues and be part of a community committed to advancing dermatology in thoughtful and collaborative ways.

ON SET WITH KIEHL'S

I had a fun afternoon filming a new project with Kiehl's, with more to come later this fall. Looking forward to sharing what we've been working on soon!
